

Week 6 – 21.10.22 (HALF-TERM)

Happy Half Term everybody and well done to all the Kingfishers for working hard and being a real credit to our school! Also, enjoy Halloween but please be careful and remember to stay safe as we discussed in class.

This week's home-learning is short as I know some of you are off on holiday.

English Home Learning

Please make sure that you try and read every day. I'd love to have a book talk session on the Monday when we return. This can be an opportunity to share your reading with each other in small groups and celebrate great texts.

As you know, we have started focusing on Sherlock Holmes detective fiction and after half-term we are going to writing our own stories with our own detectives. Over the holidays, I would like you to research a famous detective (from either a book, tv or film) and produce a fact file poster about them. Try and include either a printed or drawn picture and find out about their personality, strengths/quirks/specialisms as a detective and any tools they use to solve criminal cases. You can do your poster on A4 paper and bring it in on the Monday that we return after half-term.

Choose a detective from the list below to research (or if you know another detective this is okay too!):

Hercule Poirot

Sherlock Holmes

Miss Marple

Inspector Clouseau

Nancy Drew

Charlie Chan

I will also research a detective and bring my poster along to share too. I look forward to it!

Maths Home Learning

For Maths, please learn the square/cube numbers and how to calculate them. Below is a link to a great games site where you can practise identifying and sorting them.

<https://wordwall.net/en-gb/community/square-and-cube-numbers>