

Spring Week 1 - 6.1.23 - HAPPY NEW YEAR

I nearly forgot to mention home-learning this week with so much going on! Apologies.

As I have only had a couple of days with the children, this week I won't be setting formal home-learning. However, I do ask that the children continue to read daily and if there is anything they have not done for home-learning over the Christmas Break then to do that.

For the next couple of weeks, I will be timetabling in some Book Talk sessions where the children can share the book they read over the holidays either to the class, to a small group or, for some, to only their talk partner.
